Ambassadors Program in Action in Colorado

Written by Lyndsay Senger, Operations Manager
Since the Ambassadors Program launched in English in February of this year, we have been blessed to witness the growing desire among women to intentionally develop as servants and advocates for the ministry. I have been especially blessed to see how our Ambassadors put that calling into action and to learn how they are strengthening their own women's ministries and impacting their communities.

In August, Mission Point Church of Christ hosted a bilingual Ladies' Day in partnership with the Englewood Church of Christ to encourage and equip women throughout Colorado's Front Range as they seek to deepen their relationship with God and one another. It was a beautiful picture of unity as women from several churches, both English- and Spanish-speaking, came together to grow stronger in their faith.

This was the second bilingual event I have had the opportunity to be part of since joining the IRSM team in December 2024, and once again, it was encouraging to see several Ambassadors come together to serve. Three Speaker Ambassadors taught lessons, while several others took turns serving at the ministry booth and as small group facilitators. And one Ambassador assisted with AV and was even entrusted with caring for a newborn baby so the baby's mom could fully participate in a small group.

One of the most encouraging parts of the day was seeing the fruit of an Ambassador's ministry taking root in the lives of other women. Kay, one of our Ambassadors, has facilitated multiple bilingual Bible studies using IRSM resources. As women visited the ministry booth, several recognized the resources and shared that they had already participated in a study with Kay. Their comments were a beautiful reminder that the work of an Ambassador extends far beyond an event -- it continues through relationships, Bible studies, and their own women's ministries.

Through conversations throughout the day, we saw growing interest in the Ambassadors Program and connected with several women who are excited to become part of this vision.

The following day, we took advantage of having so many Ambassadors together in one place and held our first “Ambassadors Meet Up”. Ambassadors, both new and experienced, gathered to fellowship, encourage one another, share experiences, and strengthen the relationships that make this ministry so special.

“Therefore encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing.” (1Th 5:11)

What happened in Colorado was more than a single event. It was a glimpse of what can happen when women are willing to serve, encourage, and equip one another. As interest in the Ambassadors Program continues to grow, we are excited to see how God will use these women to strengthen ministries and reach even more women in their churches and communities.

It is encouraging, and we are grateful for every woman who is choosing to step forward and be part of it.
